A Dictionary of the Economic Products of India

BY DR. GEO. WATT, C.I.E.,

Reporter on Economic Products.

The first five volumes and Vol. VI, Parts I, II, III & IV of the Dictionary are ready at the Office of the Superintendent of Government Printing, No. 8, Hastings Street, Calcutta, and will be supplied to non-subscribers on receipt of the price for the complete set, which is Rs. 45 in India, and 3 guineas in England (exclusive of the Index, for which a separate charge will be made): packing and postage, in India, 8 annas per volume; for England, Rs. 2-6 per volume. For copies bound in half calf or half morocco, Rs. 6 and 8 shillings, respectively, will be charged extra for the whole set.

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal, vegetable, and mineral; each product being treated after a uniform plan, the paragraphs of which give the scientific, vernacular, and European names; habitat or source; history; properties and uses (both chemical and industrial); trade statistics; markets, &c. The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature, but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross-references, so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product, even when its scientific name is unknown to the reader.

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks, and with a reference to the original publication. Numerous contributors have, however, furnished the results of new discoveries and confirmed the vernacular names, so that the Dictionary is not only a complete compilation of published information, but has been brought abreast of the most recent inventions and discoveries.

Volume I contains the letters A and B, and consists of 559 royal 8vo. pages; Vol. II embraces the letter C in 689 pages; Vol. III contains the letters D, E, F and half of G.; Vol. IV latter half of G to middle of L; and Vol. V contains the latter half of L to end of O; Vol. VI (which consist of four parts), Part I, contains letters P to R. The whole work completed in nine volumes (including Parts II to IV of Vol. VI); but a tenth volume may also be issued, consisting of an Index to all the vernacular and other names contained in the Dictionary. The Index will practically be a Glossary of the Vernacular and European names of the plants, animals and minerals of India, and, as such, will be a work of reference, which, it is hoped, may prove of considerable value.

NOTICES TO MARINERS.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL—MARINE DEPARTMENT.

NOTICE TO MARINERS—No. 247.

[First Publication.]

EASTERN ARCHIPELAGO—STRAIT OF MAKASSAR.

(1) Pulo Lawt strait—Rock south-eastward of Suangi island.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 726 of 1897) of the existence of a rock, which dries at half tide, or about 3 feet, and is about two-tenths of a cable in length east and west, situated with the tree on the south-east end of Suangi island bearing N. 47° W., distant 8 cables; and entrance of Selaru river N. 38° E.

Approximate position, lat. 3° 27′ 35″ S., long. 116° 1′ 40″ E.

(2) Amended particulars of Hercules Reef, Ares Bank, &c.

Also that—

(a) Hercules reef, in approximately lat. 2° 22$\frac{1}{4}$′ S., long 116° 43′ E., partly dries at low water.

A rock, with a depth of 16 feet on it, and about a cable in diameter is situated N. 20° E., distant 2$\frac{2}{10}$ cables, from Hercules reef; and there are depths of 8 fathoms in a S.S.W. direction for about 1$\frac{1}{2}$ cables from that reef, in other directions the soundings around Hercules reef are 12 to 19 fathoms.

(b) Ares bank, eastward of Ares or Aru point, is reported to be situated 2 miles westward of the position in which it has hitherto been shown, and a note to that effect has been placed on the chart.

NOTE ON THE EARLY COTTON CROP IN BENGAL, 1897.

THE following is published for general information.

M. FINUCANE,

The 28th December 1897. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

DEPARTMENT OF LAND RECORDS AND AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

NOTE ON THE EARLY COTTON CROP IN BENGAL, 1897.

1. Explanatory.—The present Report furnishes estimates of the area and outturn of the early Cotton Crop of these Provinces, which is sown during the monsoon rains and harvested during the cold weather. Estimates of the area and outturn of the late Cotton Crop, which is sown at the close of the rainy season and harvested in the hot weather, will be furnished in due course in a separate report.

2. Character of the season.—In July, the rainfall was below the normal in most of the early cotton districts; but the defect does not appear to have produced any bad effects.

In August, it was more evenly distributed. In September, it was again below the normal, taking all the early cotton districts together. In October, the rainfall was everywhere above the normal. In November, the weather was seasonable. But for the cyclone which passed over the Chittagong Division in October, and almost wholly destroyed the crop in the Chittagong Hill Tracts, the season was, on the whole, favourable to the cultivation of the early cotton crop of these Provinces.

3. Total area sown.—The total area cultivated with early cotton this year is estimated as 105,300 acres, against 86,200 acres estimated for 1896. The increase in area amounts to 19,100 acres, or 22·1 per cent. on the area sown last year. The Districts of Manbhum and Palamau account chiefly for this increase. In Manbhum, an area of 20,000 acres is returned as sown with cotton this year, as compared with an area of 6,500 acres in 1896. The Deputy Commissioner has been asked if there is any special explanation to be offered of this sudden extension of cultivation. From Palamau, similarly, it is reported that the area sown this year (10,000 acres) is almost double that sown last year. The only districts that show a contraction in the area cultivated this year, as compared with that of last year, are Midnapore (with a nominal decrease of 200 acres), and Lohardaga (with a decrease of 1,900 acres).

4. Character of the crop.—The outturn, generally, shows an improvement on the figures of 1896, and it is only in the Chittagong Hill Tracts that the outturn compares unfavourably with that of last year. One district, viz., Cuttack, returns a 17-anna crop; six districts, viz., Monghyr, Angul and the Khondmals, Hazaribagh, Lohardaga, Manbhum and Singbhum return full average crops of 16 annas; and five districts, viz., Bhagalpur, the Sonthal Parganas, Puri, Balasore and Palamau return crops varying from 12 to less than 16 annas. Midnapore returns a 8-anna crop, and the Chittagong Hill Tracts only a 1-anna crop. Taking all the early cotton-growing districts together, inclusive of the Chittagong Hill Tracts, the outturn this year, calculated with reference to the areas sown, is estimated at 12½ annas, against a crop of 9 annas for last year. Exclusive of the Chittagong Hill Tracts, the estimate of outturn this year for the early cotton districts amounts to 14¾ annas.

5. Gross outturn.—The estimated yield of the early cotton crop of the current year amounts to 8,030,500 lbs., against 5,064,500 lbs. estimated for 1896. The average yield of the three preceding years, i.e., 1893, 1894 and 1895, amounts to 6,382,000 lbs.

REPORT ON THE EARTHQUAKE OF THE 12TH JUNE 1897 IN BENGAL.

Judicial No. 11J.—The 3rd January 1898.—The following report is published for general information.

C. W. BOLTON,

Chief Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

No. 5411J., dated Calcutta, the 6th December 1897.

From—C. W. Bolton, Esq., c.s.i., Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal,
To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department.

With reference to the Home Department telegram No. 1203, dated the 20th June 1897, I am directed to submit the following report on the earthquake that occurred on the 12th idem, with details of the injury done, so far as the area under the administration of this Government was affected. Some of the reports from the Divisional Commissioners were considerably delayed by the collection of statistics from the District Officers, and it has not been possible, in consequence, to submit this report at an earlier date. In compliance with a request from the Officiating Director of the Geological Survey of India, special information had to be obtained regarding fissures and landslips, if any. Copies of all the reports received from the local officers have, I am to observe, been forwarded to Mr. Oldham, and the Geological Department is thus already in possession of all details available to this Government, for the preparation of its report. Copies of the reports are also submitted herewith, and, as they furnish detailed particulars, it will perhaps suffice here to describe generally the extent to which Bengal suffered, the most important facts and details only being noticed.

Area affected, and relative intensity of the shocks.

2. The earthquake shock which occurred at about 5 o'clock in the afternoon of the 12th June appears to have been generally felt, in varying degrees of severity, throughout the Province, from the South Lushai Hills on the east to Shahabad on the west, and from Puri on the south to Sikkim on the north. The force of the wave was greatest in the districts lying to the east of the 88th degree of longitude, and northwards of the deltaic districts of the 24-Parganas, Nadia, Jessore and Faridpur; while the districts of Chittagong and Noakhali, the southern part of the delta, and that portion of the Province to the west and south-west beyond the districts of Midnapore, Bankura, Burdwan, the Sonthal Parganas and Purnea, escaped with comparatively slight damage to buildings and little or no recorded loss of life. The Rangpur district, which lies on the western side of the Brahmaputra opposite the Garo Hills, suffered in the severest degree, the town of Rangpur itself having had almost the whole of its masonry structures destroyed or badly injured. Dinajpur district, on its western side, suffered severely, while still further west through the districts of Purnea, Bhagalpur, Darbhanga and Muzaffarpur successively, the force of the shock appears to have decreased in strength till we reach Champaran in the north-western extremity of the Province, where only a slight tremor seems to have been observed. It is difficult to differentiate the strength of the wave in the various districts in the absence of data obtained from scientific observation, but the map annexed attempts to indicate the degree in which the shock was felt over the different parts of the Province, on the basis of the reports received as to the extent and character of the damage done. The investigations which have been undertaken by the scientific experts of the Geological Survey will, no doubt, lead to more accurate conclusions in this respect. Authentic record exists of at least six earthquakes in this Province during the past 140 years—in 1762, 1810, 1829, 1842, 1866, and 1885—of sufficient intensity to have been specially remembered; but none of these visitations can be compared in severity with that which took place in June last.

Time and rate of transmission.

3. The time at which the earthquake occurred was naturally not noted with precision at all places. The most reliable evidence is that obtained from Calcutta, and it fixes the commencement of the shock at 5 P.M., or a minute or two past 5 o'clock. The time necessarily varied according to the distance of the particular place from the centre of the subterranean disturbance and its longitude. As regards the rate of transmission of the shock, the following extract is quoted from a Note recorded by Mr. R. D. Oldham, Officiating Director of the Geological Survey:—

"The rate of transmission of the wave was very high; in fact, it has been stated in newspapers, and frequently spoken of, as having been felt simultaneously throughout Northern and Eastern India. Such was not the case, however, though the time the wave took to travel from its origin to the furthest point at which it was sensible to unaided observation, does not appear to have been more than eight minutes The very large number of time observations, of every degree of accuracy, which have been communicated, have not yet been discussed, and no definite statement can be made; but a few selected at random, as apparently good, give an average rate of transmission of about 10,000 feet per second, or over 112 miles per minute. This result indicates the order of magnitude of the figures we have to deal with, though it cannot be accepted as final, or more than very approximate. The prevalent idea of the simultaneousness of the shock is disproved by a quaint report by the Telegraph Master of Chapra, who relates that he was working Darbhanga, when there was suddenly a stoppage, due to the earthquake at Darbhanga and the signaller leaving the instrument there, and immediately afterwards, the earthquake was felt by him. According to the daily papers, a similar incident took place at Dhubri, which was, at the time, in communication with Goalpara."

If the above estimate be taken as approximately correct, and if the focus of the disturbance be assumed to have been somewhere near Cherrapunji, as the evidence from Assam would seem to show, the shock must have been communicated thence to the western extremity of Bengal in six minutes, or even less. In regard to the duration of the shock, the lengths of time returned by local officers vary greatly, the lowest being six seconds, and the highest five minutes.

Effect on the rivers and phenomena on land.

4. No disturbance in the nature of a storm-wave occurred on the coast, or in the Hooghly, but the effect of the shock was noticeable on the Padma, Brahmaputra and Meghna rivers. Noticeable features of the earthquake were the opening of long cracks and fissures in the ground, and the formation, in places, of more or less circular holes, through which water and sand were ejected. This bursting forth of sand and water was most common in the Pabna, Bogra, Rangpur and Dinajpur districts, where a considerable aggregate area was strewn with sand; but the same phenomenon has been reported from several other districts as well in the northern and eastern parts of the Province. In the Rangpur, Bogra and Pabna districts sand was forced up in a large proportion of the wells, and rendered them dry or otherwise unfit for use. Earth fissures appear to have been confined to alluvial tracts and were naturally most numerous in the districts closest to the Assam Hills. They varied in width and length according to the conformation of the ground. The largest reported from the district of Bogra are stated to have attained a length of over a mile; while several in the Rajshahi district are shown as extending for more than half a mile. In some cases they are said to have been upwards of 30 feet in depth, and 9 or 10 feet are mentioned as the width of one in the Rajshahi district. Many small river channels were entirely blocked by the upheaval of their beds and their becoming choked with sand. In this way the surface drainage has been changed in places, and houses and even small villages flooded. Writing of the effects of the earthquake on drainage channels and rivers in his district, the Collector of Rangpur says:—

"Several places . . . . which were not fordable before the earthquake, but could be crossed only by ferry, became fordable through the earthquake. The bed of the Ghagat referred to above, which passes through the heart of the Gaibanda subdivisional head-quarters, rose about 10 to 15 feet from Naldanga in the north to Badiakhali in the south, a distance of nearly 22 miles. The consequence of this has been that while the river is fordable, the ordinary drainage has passed over the country, and a number of the villages on either bank have been under water since the earthquake."

5. The destruction done to buildings was greatest in the large towns of the Eastern districts, where most of the older masonry buildings were severely damaged, and many totally wrecked. In the towns of Rangpur, Bogra, Pabna, Dinajpur, Cooch Behar, Murshidabad, Dacca, Mymensingh, and in Agartala in Hill Tippera, nearly all masonry houses suffered; while in Calcutta, Hooghly, Krishnagar, Rampur Boalia and Malda a considerable proportion of the larger buildings were damaged. The smaller brick houses of the poorer classes were better able to withstand the shock, and the native houses and huts of mud, wood, matting and thatch escaped with comparative immunity.

Damage to buildings and property.

6. It was most fortunate that the shock occurred at the hour it did, when most people were either out of doors or ready to go out, and when, owing to the day being the last of the Muharram festival, most Muhammadans were in the open air. Had the earthquake happened during the night, the number killed must have been very large. As it was, the total number of deaths returned from all parts of the Province is only 135. The largest numbers were killed in Murshidabad (37), Rangpur (18), Rampur Boalia (15), Bogra (10) and Hooghly (8). No deaths have been reported from the Chittagong, Patna, Orissa or Chota Nagpur Divisions.

Loss of life.

7. The total amount of damage done to buildings cannot be estimated with any degree of accuracy, but returns have been furnished from all districts, showing the damage done to Government buildings and the probable cost of repairs. The figures give a comparative idea of the destruction that must have been caused to private buildings. In Calcutta, where the shock was not felt at its worst, the damage done to private buildings has been calculated by the proprietors at nearly 16½ lakhs: the Commissioner of Police, however, regards this as an overestimate. In Murshidabad, the damage done to the palace of the Nawab Bahadur and the numerous Nizamat buildings comes to two-and-a-half lakhs. The Maharaja's palace in Cooch Behar was very seriously damaged, and will have to be partially rebuilt at a cost of some five lakhs. The Maharaja of Mymensingh's new and costly residence was also very seriously injured, and the Nawab of Dacca has suffered very heavily also.

Cost of repairs to buildings and communications.

8. The railway lines that suffered most were the Eastern Bengal State Railway and the Assam-Bengal line. Most damage was done to the northern section of the Eastern Bengal State Railway, and a fortnight elapsed before through passenger trains could be run on the line. The large bridges over the Atrai and Baral were much damaged, and many of the small bridges and culverts rendered unsafe. Almost the whole length of embankment between Saidpur and Haldibari sank, and the rails in many cases were twisted. Fissures opened on each side of the embankment; and several of the station buildings were injured. At Nilphamari the iron goods shed was bent out of shape. North of Siliguri, the Darjeeling-Himalayan Railway was not much injured—so little, in fact, that passengers proceeding to Calcutta were unconscious that an earthquake had occurred till they saw the fissures and sinking of the line between Sukna and Siliguri. They were detained at the latter place till next day, when they learnt that the line beyond was impassable, and they were forced to return to Darjeeling. The Parbatipur-Jatrapur branch of the Eastern Bengal State Railway was almost as badly damaged as the northern section, and through communication was rendered impossible. On the Goalundo line, the injury caused was trifling. That portion of the Assam-Bengal Railway, which lies within the districts of Tippera and Mymensingh, was damaged in places, especially at Akhaura, where the cost of repairs to the railway buildings is estimated at Rs. 2,300. The other lines—East Indian Railway, Bengal-Nagpur Railway, and Bengal and North-Western Railway—suffered little or no damage.

Damage done on Railway lines.

9. On the date of the earthquake, the head-quarters of Government were at Darjeeling, where a few houses only were completely wrecked, although a large number suffered some damage. Telegraphic accounts of the shock from outlying stations came in slowly owing to the extreme pressure of work that suddenly fell on the telegraph office. Postal communication with the plains was suspended for three days, and it was more than a week before even a trolly service could be arranged for passengers over the most damaged parts of the railway line to the south of Siliguri. Enquiries were, however, quickly instituted to ascertain the more serious damage done that required immediate attention; and steps were taken by the Public Works Department to have all Government buildings professionally inspected by the local engineers and estimates drawn up of the repairs urgently needed; and, where necessary, to have temporary structures immediately erected pending thorough repairs or rebuilding. The results of these estimates, in some cases modified since, are shown in Appendix A. The total cost of repairs to, and reconstruction of, Government buildings has been calculated, it will be seen, at nearly 13 lakhs of rupees. The largest estimate (Rs. 3,00,000) is shown by Rangpur, where almost every masonry building was either ruined or so badly-damaged as to become unfit for occupation. Dacca comes next, with damage estimated at Rs. 1,43,372, and then follow Bogra (Rs. 1,14,000), Calcutta (Rs. 1,09,000), Rajshahi (Rs. 1,06,719), Mymensingh (Rs. 1,00,000), Hooghly (Rs. 34,700), and Dinajpur (Rs. 25,000). The estimates for repairs at other stations are below twenty thousand rupees.

Details from the districts.

10. The chief details of the earthquake in the several Divisions, as reported by the local officers, are summarised below:—

BURDWAN DIVISION.

Burdwan District.—Loss of life occurred in this district at Katwa and at Sijna in the Kalna subdivision. In the former place three persons were killed by falling buildings, while ten others sustained injuries; and in the latter a woman was killed by a falling wall. The damage done to the Government buildings was not serious, though almost all of them show cracks in the walls and arches. In the Sadar subdivision the jail and subsidiary buildings, the Judge's court-house and subsidiary buildings, the subordinate civil court-houses and the police buildings were damaged, while the post-office at Bud-Bud was so damaged that it had to be vacated. In the Raniganj subdivision the church and the police-station at Raniganj and the church at Asansol were damaged; while in the Kalna subdivision the buildings which were more or less damaged were the subdivisional office buildings, the Subdivisional Officer's house, the subsidiary jail buildings, and the thana buildings at Kalna, Purbasthali and Monteswar. The cost of repairs, &c, has been estimated at Rs. 5,500. A large number of private buildings were more or less damaged. At Kalna the total damage to house property is estimated at about Rs. 50,000. The collieries, it is said, have not suffered in any way, and the factories also have escaped with nothing more than a few cracks

Birbhum District.—Five deaths are reported from the Labpur thana and one from Nalhati; but public buildings are reported to have sustained but little damage.

Bankura District.—With the exception of cracks in walls and arches, no serious damage was done to any buildings in this district. No loss of life is reported to have occurred.

Midnapore District.—Here, also, there was no loss of life, and the damage to public buildings was small. The subdivisional office buildings and Subdivisional Officer's quarters at Ghatal were injured, and a few private houses collapsed.

Hooghly District.—The casualties caused by the falling of buildings amounted to eight persons killed, of whom seven are returned from the Serampore subdivision: several others were injured. Most of the public buildings in this district suffered severely. The old collectorate at Hooghly was so badly cracked and damaged as to have been rendered quite unsafe, and it has been abandoned; and the Judge's court and record-room and the Hooghly college were much injured. The walls, arches and roof of the Bandel circuit house were badly cracked. At Chinsura the shock demolished a part of the front verandah of the barracks; the Judge's residence was much damaged, and the other Government buildings also suffered more or less.

Howrah District.—No lives are reported to have been lost in this district, but the damage done to buildings was considerable. Of the public buildings at Howrah, the Magistrate's court-house was damaged badly, and the Magistrate's residence, St. Thomas' Church, and the reserve police barrack slightly.

At Sibpur, the quarters of the Superintendent of the Botanical Gardens and the residence of the Executive Engineer, late Workshops Division, suffered much; while the Government buildings at Ulubaria were slightly damaged. The approximate cost of repairs to public buildings has been estimated at Rs. 13,900.

PRESIDENCY DIVISION

Calcutta.—In Calcutta fortunately many people were already out of doors, while almost all who were indoors at the time ran out into their compounds or into the open street for safety. A very large number of the masonry houses in the city were more or less damaged, the oldest houses suffering most, and the newer buildings least. With the exception of one or two weakly-built houses which collapsed entirely, the damage was mostly confined to the upper stories, and to the cracking of arches and the falling of cornices and parapets and parts of detached porticos or additions to the original structure. Among the principal buildings in the city that were injured the following may be specified:—St. Paul's Cathedral, the steeple of which was truncated, the upper part falling in through the roof; St. Andrew's Church, Kidderpore, the top of the spire being badly cracked and the wall and cornices damaged; St. John's Church and St. James's Church; the High Court, several of the pinnacles of which were twisted or broken, and the southern wall of the northern block verandah thrown 5 inches out of plumb; the Foreign Office, the southern and eastern portions being considerably damaged; the India Legislative Council building, the Board of Revenue Office, the Stamp and Stationery Office, the Dhurmtala Press, the Presidency General Hospital, the Sanskrit College, the Calcutta Madrassa, the General Post Office and the Central Telegraph Office. As regards private buildings, it will be seen from the report submitted by the Commissioner of Police that 1,308 masonry and 6 other houses were damaged in the Town and Suburbs, the aggregate cost of repairs being assumed by the owners to be Rs. 16,42,669. Only 4 deaths are reported to have occurred.

24-Parganas District.—No loss of life occurred in this district, but public buildings suffered severely in the head-quarters and Barasat subdivision, where some Rs. 11,500 will have to be spent on repairs.

Nadia District.—No lives are reported to have been lost, but almost all the public buildings were more or less injured. The Collector's office, the jail and police buildings, the college and post-office at Krishnagar, the Subdivisional Officer's residence at Meherpur and the subdivisional courts and Subdivisional Officers' residences at Kushtia and Ranaghat were badly damaged, and in most of the other buildings the walls, cornices and roofs were cracked or the plaster fell. Many private residences were seriously injured, and the Commissioner of the Division, who saw the damage at Krishnagar, thinks that the earthquake shock was more severe there than at Calcutta, but not so great as at Murshidabad.

Murshidabad District.—The Commissioner reports that the shock of earthquake was much more severe along the basin of the Bhagirathi river than in Calcutta or in any other part of his Division, and that the old masonry buildings in the riparian towns suffered enormously. It is probable, however, that the greater severity of the shock has been assumed on account of the more extensive damage done; but the existence of a vast number of old buildings in these towns appears to account for the damage. For the same reason, apparently, the loss of life was also heavy in this tract, 10 deaths having been caused in Berhampore, 2 in Kasimbazar, 11 in Baluchar, and 5 in Kandi. Both public and private buildings were seriously damaged, especially at Murshidabad and Berhampore, as will be seen from the detailed list annexed to the Collector's report. The damage to Government buildings has been estimated at Rs. 60,000. In Murshidabad, the Nizamat buildings, comprising the old and new palaces, the Imambara, the Nawab's High School and many other houses, suffered very badly. At Berhampore, some of the barracks which are used as Courts and for other purposes have been seriously damaged, while the Judge's court-house, the college, the jail and subsidiary buildings and the lunatic asylum have also been more or less injured.

A large number of private houses in Berhampore, Murshidabad and Azimganj collapsed, and few have escaped injury. A considerable portion of the fine buildings which belonged to the late Maharani Surnomoyee, C.I., in Kasimbazar, most of the large buildings of the Jain merchants in Azimganj, including two of the Jain temples, and a large number of houses in Baluchar, were badly damaged. It is reported that at Chandpara, a village in the Kandi subdivision, a lake formed immediately after the earthquake, apparently by the subsidence of several acres of land. The Commissioner thinks that the total damage done in this district to public and private property cannot have been less than 50 lakhs of rupees, and may be more. His estimate, however, appears to be excessive.

Jessore District.—One death has been reported from this district, caused by the collapse of a house. No severe damage to public buildings, roads or bridges occurred. The offices and jail buildings at Magura, Jhenida and Narail suffered a little, the total cost of repairs being estimated at Rs. 2,000. As regards other buildings, a few masonry houses in the interior, especially two-storied ones, are reported to have fallen.

Khulna District.—The Collector reports that the only Government buildings in the district that were damaged were the new police building at Dumaria in the head-quarters subdivision, the Bagirhat subdivisional building, and the thana building at Kaliganj in the Satkhira subdivision.

RAJSHAHI DIVISION.

Rajshahi District.—The earthquake was severely felt throughout this district, specially on the eastern side, but the loss of life was comparatively small. Four deaths are reported from Nator, two from Naugaon, and nine from Rampur Boalia, while the number injured was not large. The damage to property, however, has been great. Of Government buildings, the Judge's court-house, the collectorate, the record-room, the circuit-house, the police barrack and subsidiary buildings, the jail and subsidiary buildings, the post-office, and the educational buildings at Boalia have been more or less damaged, some so seriously that they must be rebuilt. At the subdivisions of Nator and Naugaon, the subdivisional offices, subsidiary jails and other buildings were injured. The loss to Government is roughly estimated at a lakh and-a-half. The loss of private property has not been estimated, but the zamindars, as a class, have suffered very much, the greatest loss falling upon the leading families residing at Nator, Dighapatia, Kasimpur and Puthia. The indigo and silk factories have also sustained serious damage. Earth fissures occurred throughout the district, and the roads were badly cracked in places. Some slight damage was also done to crops by sinking of the ground.

Dinajpur District.—In this district, the severity of the shock appears to have been much the same as in Rajshahi. Five persons are reported to have been killed and several injured. Government buildings at Dinajpur and Thakurgaon were damaged to the extent of some Rs. 25,000 only, but the damage caused to private property has been heavy, the Maharaja of Dinajpur alone, who resides in the town, being reported to have sustained a loss of about 2 lakhs. The residence of the District Superintendent of Police was reduced to ruins, and the Civil Medical Officer's and the Judge's houses became uninhabitable. The mud and mat-walled houses of the poorer classes in the town suffered little damage.

Jalpaiguri District.—No loss of life is reported from this district. Public buildings, however, suffered, both at the head-quarters station and at Alipore and Buxa. At the last-named place the new circuit-house was badly damaged, the walls and roof having fallen in. At Alipore, the enclosure wall of the subdivisional lock-up and the warders' room were thrown down, and the subdivisional residence and office buildings slightly injured. At Jalpaiguri, the jail, the post-office, the new school and the Commissioner's residence and office building suffered most. The damage done to roads was also considerable, due to the sinking of portions and the opening of deep fissures; and injury was caused to many of the bridges. The total cost of repairs to public buildings and roads has been estimated at Rs. 14,635.

Darjeeling District.—The hill portion of this district did not suffer so much as might have been expected. In the town of Darjeeling, most of the masonry houses were injured to some extent, and some eight were wrecked. Among public buildings, the Shrubbery, which is the Lieutenant-Governor's residence, including the Aide-de-Camp's quarters, the zilla school, and the new court-house under construction suffered most. The cost of repairs to public buildings in the town and district was estimated at about Rs. 14,000, and to communications at Rs. 2,000. Three lives were lost by the fall of boulders from the hill sides. Damage, as a rule not serious, was done to buildings on tea estates in many parts of the district.

Rangpur District.—As already stated, this district suffered more than any other in the Province. Nearly all the public and private masonry buildings were severely damaged, and a large proportion either wrecked or rendered unfit for occupation. The cost of reconstruction and repairs of Government buildings has been estimated at about Rs. 3,00,000. The damage done by the earthquake occurred mainly in the alluvial portion of the district which occupies about 90 per cent. or 3,000 square miles of the entire area. The roads and bridges suffered very seriously, the former subsiding or being upheaved and fissured in many places, and many of the latter collapsing through the destruction of their abutments and piers, or being otherwise injured beyond repair. The railway lines passing through the district suffered similarly. Two important drainage canals at Rangpur and smaller drains at Kurigram and Nilphamari were nearly filled up with sand, and became contracted in width by about 25 per cent. The same effects were produced in the small rivers and channels. The silting up of these waterways is a serious result of the earthquake, which may hereafter check drainage, cause floods and render the flooded tracts malarious. The water-supply for domestic use has also been affected by the upheaval of sand within the wells, which are largely used over the greater portion of the district. A good deal of damage was caused to crops by fissures in the cultivated fields, from which sand and water were thrown up. Notwithstanding the destruction caused to property, the number of deaths reported in the district is only 18, or less than the number returned from the Murshidabad district.

Bogra District.—Here the Collector's court-house and treasury strong-room and the circuit-house were all but wrecked, while the treasury guard-house, the residence of the Magistrate, and the office of the Manager of the Joypur Government estate collapsed. Severe injury was also done to the jail and educational buildings, to the sub-registry office and to the residences of the Civil Medical Officer and the District Superintendent of Police. All the police-stations but one, and the roads, bridges and bungalows under the District Board, were more or less damaged. The approximate cost of reconstruction or repairs is estimated at about Rs. 1,14,000. Private buildings have suffered to a proportionate extent. The Collector has described the effect of the earthquake throughout the district as follows :—

"In the alluvial tracts, where the houses are mostly constructed with mat walls, bamboo posts and grass thatches, no injury to houses of this description has been caused. But all pucka houses, whether on clayey or sandy soil, and houses with mud walls in the clayey (khiar) tracts have suffered terribly. In the interior of the district, however, the injury done to mud-walled houses is not a matter of much serious concern. They are easily repairable, and that commonly by the personal labour of the occupants. It is the brick-built houses in which the greatest amount of havoc has taken place. Both of the towns of Bogra and Sherpur have suffered badly. The scene which these towns presented after the earthquake was, indeed, a most woeful one. In fact, brick-built houses all over the district have, with rare exceptions, suffered badly, either having collapsed entirely, or having been badly shaken and cracked. Roads and bridges also have been injured in many places, the surface of the road having cracked and sunk in many places, and bridges having cracked in others."

In the town of Bogra two persons lost their lives, and eight were killed in the interior of the district.

Pabna District.—In the north-eastern part of this district, forming the Sirajganj subdivision, the effect of the shock was most severe. At Sirajganj, the Magistrate reports the upper story of the Subdivisional Officer's office and residence, known as the Barakothi, the subsidiary jail and the post office were practically destroyed, and almost every other masonry Government building was more or less severely shaken, while at Pabna itself considerable damage was done to public buildings. Private houses suffered more, the residences of the Collector, Judge, Civil Medical Officer and District Superintendent of Police having been rendered uninhabitable. Fissures opened, and sand was ejected in various places, but not to such an extent as in the Rangpur and Bogra districts. In addition to this, a large proportion of the wells in the district have become filled with sand and have been rendered useless. Four lives are reported to have been lost, two in the Sirajganj thana and two in the Shahzadpur thana. The cost of repairing the public buildings has been estimated at Rs. 15,900.

Cooch Behar State.—The destruction done to State and private masonry buildings in Cooch Behar was enormous. The Superintendent's latest estimate of the cost of repairing the Palace is five lakhs, and he calculates that another 15 lakhs will be required for repairs and re-construction of buildings, including houses on the Maharaja's properties at Darjeeling and Calcutta. The bridges on the Cooch Behar Railway were broken, and the permanent-way was much cut up by fissures. The roads, with their bridges, suffered similarly.

DACCA DIVISION.

Dacca District.—As regards the town of Dacca, the Commissioner wrote on the day after the earthquake: "All two-storied houses in the station are badly damaged; one-storied have escaped serious injury." Further inspection showed that several houses had entirely collapsed, and that nearly all the houses occupied by the European residents had been so severely damaged that they had to be partly rebuilt. The public buildings injured were the Dacca College, the collegiate school building, the madrassa buildings, the jail buildings, the police barracks and subsidiary buildings, the Magistrate's court, the Collector's court, the Small Cause Court, the Judges' court, the registration office, the lunatic asylum and subsidiary buildings, the Lalbagh old fort and buildings, the buildings of the Pilkhana (where the khedda elephants are kept), the church, the cemetery, and the building containing the tombs of the old Nawabs in the Husaini Dalan. The Chief Engineer has estimated the damage done at about Rs. 46,000. Ten persons were buried in the debris of fallen houses, but five were extricated alive. At Narainganj, the subdivisional court building, the police thana, the Munsif's court building, the telegraph office and the post-office were only slightly cracked; and at Manikganj but little damage was done. At Munshiganj, however, the sub-jail was badly shaken, part of the outer wall coming down.

Mymensingh District.—In this district the shock was felt most severely in the north, below the Garo Hills, in the Jamalpur and Netrokona subdivisions. In regard to the head-quarters station, the following extract is quoted from the Collector's report:—

"The Judge's court-house and the English church have been completely destroyed. One of the collectorate buildings, containing the Collector's munshikhana, the nazir's office, land registration and partition offices and two court-rooms, has partially collapsed. The portion still standing is in a dangerous condition and will have to come down. The old collectorate building containing the following offices—Court Sub-Inspector's office, hajat (room for under-trial prisoners), Assistant Superintendent's office, Collector's record-room, Magistrate's record-room, munshikhana, and a court-room—is seriously injured and unsafe. There is a gap, about 12 feet long and 4 to 5 feet wide, in the roof of the Collector's record-room, where the roof fell in bodily . . . . The building containing the road cess office is dangerously cracked. The new collectorate building containing the treasury is practically uninjured. Portions of the outer jail wall came down; the two double-storied barracks are badly cracked and unsafe; the hajat (under-trial) ward is uninhabitable. The eastern portion of the range of buildings containing the circuit-house and dâk-bungalow is badly injured; the circuit-house in particular is a ruin. With the exception of my house, which is only slightly damaged, all the European officers' residences are so badly damaged as to be uninhabitable. The zilla school was also so badly damaged that the whole building will have to be dismantled"

The cost of repairs to the Government buildings in the town has been estimated at about Rs. 1,00,000. At Jamalpur the subdivisional residence, the sub-jail, the municipal office and the munsif's court-house were destroyed; at Netrokona the sub jail was destroyed, and the subdivisional residence and sub-treasury damaged; while at Tangail and Kishorganj the sub-divisional residences and sub-jails were badly damaged. Many police-station buildings and District Board bungalows were also rendered uninhabitable, and roads and bridges injured. The following passage from the Collector's report may be reproduced:—

"I paid a visit to Muktagacha on the 30th June with Mr. Grieves of the Geological Survey of India. I found all the pucka houses of the zamindars in ruins. The metalled road from Mymensingh to Muktagacha, 10½ miles long, is badly cracked from the fifth mile up to Muktagacha. The large bridge of Mantola has sunk about four feet at each end, and is only practicable for Government passengers. It will probably be necessary to rebuild it.

"Much damage has been done in various parts of the district by the subsidence of the soil. Houses have been half buried in many cases. Sand has been upheaved through the cracks in the soil, and spread here and there over the surface, causing a certain amount of damage to the standing aus. Many wells have run dry owing to sand being forced up above the water level. Many tanks have also had their bottoms raised by the upheaval of the soil, but I am unable at present to give the total number of tanks and wells which have been rendered unfit for use from this cause."

Faridpur District.—In the Sadar station damage was done to the older buildings, chiefly to the jail and criminal record-room, the cost of repairs to public buildings being estimated at Rs. 5,645. The Judge's residence also was rendered uninhabitable. One death occurred in the Goalundo subdivision, where a man was crushed by a falling building.

Backergunge District.—At the head-quarters station nearly all the public buildings were injured, but to a very small extent, and slight damage was done at Pirojpur, the cost of the whole of the repairs being estimated at Rs. 2,000. No loss of life was reported.

CHITTAGONG DIVISION.

In the Chittagong Division the damage caused was comparatively trifling, and no deaths were reported. At Comilla, the head-quarters of the Tippera district, the Subordinate Judge's court-house suffered somewhat severely, the walls and roof of the High School were cracked, the church belfry was partially thrown down, four private buildings were damaged, and the railway suffered to some extent. At Brahmanbaria, in the same district, little damage was done to houses; but some old temples collapsed. The cost of repairs to public buildings in the Tippera district has been estimated at Rs. 9,100. At Agartala in Hill Tippera the Raja's palace was almost entirely destroyed. In Noakhali the circuit-house, school and registration office buildings were slightly cracked, and two private buildings were damaged. In Chittagong no damage of importance was done; while at Rangamati in the Hill Tracts the magazine and treasury buildings suffered slightly.

PATNA DIVISION.

There was no loss of life in any of the districts of the Patna Division, and the damage done to public buildings was of an insignificant character. In three districts, Saran, Champaran and Muzaffarpur, no damage was caused; and in the remaining four districts, Patna, Gaya, Shahabad and Darbhanga, the damage was confined to the cracking of walls and archways of old buildings. In the Patna district the probable cost of repairs, &c., is estimated at Rs. 2,100.

BHAGALPUR DIVISION.

Malda, being the easternmost district, suffered more than any other district in the Bhagalpur Division. In the English Bazar and Old Malda Bazar all masonry houses were damaged. The court-house and circuit-house were badly injured. The cost of repairs to public buildings has been calculated at Rs. 13,220, while private buildings are estimated roughly to have suffered to the extent of some Rs. 2,50,000. Six deaths are reported to have been caused in this district by the earthquake. In Purnea the shock was not so severe, and the repairs to public buildings will cost about Rs. 4,100. Private property, however, suffered to a large extent. In Monghyr, considerable damage was done to masonry buildings at the head quarters station and at Jamalpur, all the double-storied railway houses at the latter place being injured. Much damage was also done in Bhagalpur station, especially to the church and to the central jail. The necessary repairs will cost approximately Rs. 7,400. In the Sonthal Parganas, Rs. 2,620 has been calculated as covering repairs of the damage done, which was slight. Seven deaths have been returned from the Division, six from Malda and one from Bhagalpur.

ORISSA DIVISION.

The damage in Orissa was more or less confined to the Balasore district, where many Government buildings were slightly cracked. In Cuttack one or two cracks occurred, but nothing more; while in Puri and Angul the earthquake was scarcely noticed.

CHOTA NAGPUR DIVISION.

In the Singhbhum, Lohardaga and Hazaribagh districts of Chota Nagpur, some slight damage was done to a limited number of houses, but the shock was comparatively slight in these and in the remaining two districts. No loss of life occurred either in Orissa or in this Division.

The imports of rice into Chittagong during the week under report amounted to 3,048 cwts., the whole of which came from Burma, against 477 cwts. in the week ending 14th December 1896. Colombo, Galle, and the Madras ports together received 2,687 cwts of rice and 1,765 cwts. of paddy, against nil in the corresponding week of last year. Owing to the receipt of 338 cwts. of wheat from Calcutta, the import trade of the Balasore ports rose by 314 cwts.; while the improvement of 15,086 cwts. in the export trade was due to larger consignments of rice to Calcutta, and also to the shipments of 6,972 cwts. of rice to Mauritius, which port took nothing during the corresponding week of 1896. Colombo and Galle, which received 3,014 cwts. of rice from False Point during week ending 14th December 1896, drew nothing in the period under review.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h., and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

MARINE DEPARTMENT.

The 11th January 1898.

No. 4 Marine.—The following revised scheme of storm signals for the Indian coast ports (except those on the river Hooghly), which was published, under Notification No. 179 Marine, dated the 19th October 1897, in Part I, pages 1303 to 1306 of the Calcutta Gazette of the 20th idem, will come into force throughout India from the 1st of April 1898.

A. D. McARTHUR, Colonel, R.E.,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

DAY SIGNALS.

I.—CAUTIONARY SIGNAL.

Bay of Bengal.

The square flag W of the International Code, hoisted on the storm signal staff as a cautionary signal, indicates the existence of disturbed squally weather in the Bay of Bengal which may be the first stage in the formation of a cyclonic storm, and which, if it develops, is likely to affect that part of the coast on which the port is situated.

The disturbed conditions may pass away without developing into a cyclonic storm, in which case the cautionary signal will be taken down as soon as it is certain that stormy weather will not shortly follow. If, however, the disturbed weather be the first indication of the probable formation or approach of a cyclonic storm, the cautionary signal will be followed by one of the ordinary storm signals, indicating the probable position, character and track of the approaching storm.

Arabian Sea.

The square flag W of the International Code, hoisted on the storm signal staff as a cautionary signal, indicates the existence of disturbed weather off some part of the West Coast of India in the neighbourhood of the port or ports at which the signal is hoisted; or the advance of a cyclonic storm across the Peninsula from the Bay of Bengal which may hence shortly cross the Western Ghats and give squally or stormy weather in the Arabian Sea.

The disturbed conditions may in either case pass away without giving stormy cyclonic weather to the West Coast ports or to the adjacent parts of the Arabian Sea, in which case the cautionary signal will be taken down as soon as it is certain that stormy weather will not shortly follow. If, however, the disturbed weather be the first indication of the probable formation or approach of a cyclonic storm, this cautionary signal will be followed by one of the ordinary storm signals, indicating the probable position, character and track of the approaching storm.

II.—WARNING SIGNAL.

A ball indicates that a cyclonic storm has formed, which will probably advance to that part of the coast on which the port is situated, but is still at a considerable distance from it. The same signal will also be hoisted at the larger and more important ports on the West Coast of India to indicate that a storm has formed in the Arabian Sea at some distance from the coast and will shortly cross one or other of the tracks of vessels leaving those ports, but is not likely to give the ports bad weather. The port officers when instructed to hoist the warning signal will also be informed of the object of the signal so as to communicate its full purport to masters of vessels about to leave the port.

III.—DANGER SIGNALS.

(1) A cone apex downwards indicates that a cyclonic storm (probably of slight to moderate intensity) is affecting the port, and that its centre will probably cross the coast considerably to the south of the port.

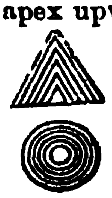
(3) A drum indicates that a cyclonic storm (probably of slight to moderate intensity) is affecting the port, and that its centre will probably cross the coast over or near to the port.



In order to indicate that a cyclonic storm in the sea area near a port is of great intensity, a ball is added to (and placed underneath) the corresponding danger signal. The following shows the proposed great danger signals and their significance :—

IV.—GREAT DANGER SIGNALS.

II.—WARNING SIGNAL.

A red light (corresponding to day warning signal) indicates that a cyclonic storm has formed, which will probably advance to that part of the coast on which the port is situated, but is still at a considerable distance from it.

III.—DANGER SIGNALS.

(I) A red light vertically above a white light corresponds to day signal No. 1 and indicates that a cyclonic storm (probably of slight to moderate intensity) is affecting the port, and that its centre will probably cross the coast considerably to the south of the port.

(II) A red light vertically below a white light corresponds to day signal No. 2 and indicates that a cyclonic storm (probably of slight to moderate intensity) is affecting the port, and that its centre will probably cross the coast considerably to the north of the port.

(III) Two red lights in a vertical line correspond to day signal No. 3 and indicate that a cyclonic storm (probably of slight to moderate intensity) is affecting the port, and that its centre will probably cross the coast over or near to the port.

IV.—GREAT DANGER SIGNALS.

(II) Two red lights with a white light above in a vertical line correspond to day great danger signal No. 2 and indicate that a cyclonic storm of great intensity is affecting the port, and that its centre will probably cross the coast considerably to the north of the port.

(III) Three red lights in a vertical line correspond to day great danger signal No. 3 and indicate that a cyclonic storm of great intensity is affecting the port, and that its centre will probably cross the coast over or near to the port.

In the above are given the day and night series of storm signals, proposed for general adoption at the storm warning stations on the coasts of India.

No night cautionary signal is included in the series. A night cautionary signal is unnecessary, and the day cautionary signal should be employed only at ports frequented by ocean-going steamers.

STORM SIGNALS TO BE USED AT SMALL PORTS, FREQUENTED ONLY BY COUNTRY VESSELS OR SMALL COASTING STEAMERS.

RESOLUTION.

PENSIONS, &c.

Calcutta, the 7th January 1898.

No. 89-P.

READ the following correspondence:—

Financial Resolution No. 1726, dated the 5th December 1883.
Letter to the Director-General of the Post Office of India, No. 6745, dated the 31st December 1887.
Despatch to Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India, No. 253, dated the 3rd September 1895.
Despatch from Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India, No. 180 (Financial), dated the 31st October 1895.

RESOLUTION.—In the Resolution of the 5th of December 1883 read in the preamble, the Government of India, with the approval of the Secretary of State for India, sanctioned, as an experimental measure, the introduction, with effect from the 1st of February 1884, of a scheme for Life Insurance and Monthly Allowances to be worked by the Agency of the Post Office, and confined to the employés of that Department; and in the letter of the 31st of December 1887, the scheme was, with the sanction of the Secretary of State for India, extended to the employés of the Telegraph Department.

2. In making these limited recommendations, the Government of India informed the Secretary of State that, although the scheme was restricted at the outset to Postal employés, the eventual inclusion of all Government servants was contemplated. But, as the statistics regarding the expectation of native life were then too imperfect to permit of any very extended scheme of Life Assurance, and as the Secretary of State was of opinion that until the Fund had been in operation for at least ten years it would be difficult to form a definite opinion regarding the probability of its eventual success, its operations were confined to the employés of those two Departments only.

3. In the Despatch to the Secretary of State of the 3rd September 1895, the Government of India observed that the scheme had been in operation for eleven years; that it had worked well; that the financial position of the Fund was sound and improving; and that they were of opinion that the time had now arrived when a further development might be attempted with safety and advantage, by extending the scheme to other Departments of the Government service. They accordingly proposed (1) that the scheme should be extended to the members of all the Government establishments whose pay is audited in the Civil Account offices and to those members of establishments of the Military Department under audit of the Military Account offices who are subject to Civil Rules, and (2) that to the advantage already allowed by the scheme should be added a system of Endowment Assurance, which they considered to be specially suitable for Government servants who have to retire at a certain age upon a pension considerably less than the pay they have drawn up to that age.

4. These proposals having been sanctioned by the Secretary of State, the Governor-General in Council is pleased to direct that, with effect from the 1st of February 1898, all Government servants whose pay is audited by the Civil or Military Account Department, and who are subject to the Civil Rules, shall be eligible to subscribe to the Postal Life Insurance, Endowment Assurance and Monthly Allowances Fund in accordance with the Rules, approved by the Government of India, which will be issued by the Director-General of the Post Office.

ORDER.—Ordered, that this Resolution be published in the Gazette of India for general information.

NEW ZEALAND—North island.

Sunken wreck north-westward of Table cape.

The British Admiralty has given notice (No. 744 of 1897) that the wreck of the steam-vessel Tasmania lies sunk in a depth of 15 fathoms, with the mastheads just below the surface of the water, in a position with the north-east extreme of Table cape bearing S. E. ¾ S., distant about $3\frac{1}{10}$ miles; and point on northern side of entrance to Horaka river S. W. by W. ¾ W.

Approximate position, lat. 39° 2′ 40″ S., long. 177° 59′ 50″ E.

A marked buoy has been moored to each mast of the wreck, but they should not be relied upon, and vessels should give the vicinity of the wreck a good berth in passing.

Cape Palliser (Rocky point) light is a second order, dioptric, group flashing white light with a period of thirty seconds; showing two flashes, separated by an interval of three seconds, in each group.

It is elevated 258 feet above high water, and visible seaward, over an arc of 214° (or from about E. ½ N., through north and west, to S. W. ¾ W.), a distance of 23 miles in clear weather.

The lighthouse, an iron tower, painted white, on a concrete base, is 58 feet high, and 640 feet from high water mark, at an elevation of 210 feet above the sea.

Approximate position, lat. 41° 36′ 45″ S., long. 175° 18′ 45″ E.

(1) Pulo Laut strait—Rock south-eastward of Suangi island.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 726 of 1897) of the existence of a rock, which dries at half tide, or about 3 feet, and is about two-tenths of a cable in length east and west, situated with the tree on the south-east end of Suangi island bearing N. 47° W., distant 8 cables; and entrance of Selaru river N. 38° E.

(a) Hercules reef, in approximately lat. 2° 22¼′ S., long 116° 43′ E., partly dries at low water.

A rock, with a depth of 16 feet on it, and about a cable in diameter is situated N. 20° E., distant $2\frac{2}{10}$ cables, from Hercules reef; and there are depths of 8 fathoms in a S.S.W. direction for about 1½ cables from that reef, in other directions the soundings around Hercules reef are 12 to 19 fathoms.

(b) Ares bank, eastward of Ares or Aru point, is reported to be situated 2 miles westward of the position in which it has hitherto been shown, and a note to that effect has been placed on the chart.

The beacon on this bank is surmounted by a white ball, and situated approximately in lat. 2° 15′ 15″ S., long. 116° 39′ 30″ E.

(c) A rocky patch, now named September reef, consisting of sand, coral, and stones dries over a length of about 2 cables in a N. by E. and S. by W. direction, and is about a cable in breadth. It is situated in approximately lat. 2° 17′ 10″ S., long. 116° 48′ 10″ E.

A rocky patch, of considerable extent, with a depth of 15 feet on it, is situated with its centre S. 54° W., distant 3½ cables, from September reef; and there are other patches with depths of 5 to 6 fathoms on them, extending about a mile and a quarter southward, and nearly a mile northward and north-westward from September reef; the general depths around being 11 to 20 fathoms.

(d) A rock which dries, with depths of 4 fathoms around, is situated in approximately lat. 2° 21′ 50″ S., long. 116° 36′ 40″ E.; a rock, with a depth of 2 feet on it, in lat. 2° 24′ 50″ S., long. 116° 35′ 0″ E.; and a rock, with a depth of 4 feet on it, and depths of 2 fathoms around, in lat. 2° 27′ 20″ S., long. 116° 34′ 5″ E.

THE MONSOON OF 1897.

THE following report is published for general information.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

M. FINUCANE,

Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

The 10th January 1898.

METEOROLOGICAL SUMMARY FOR THE MONSOON PERIOD OF 1897.

THE following remarks are intended to form the usual brief introduction to the rainfall tables and charts, which give full information regarding the rainfall measured during the south-west monsoon months in all parts of the province. Only the more important features of the general atmospheric conditions are discussed, and then only when they show a tendency favourable or unfavourable to rainfall.

The absence of rainfall, which was such a marked feature of the weather conditions prevailing throughout 1896, continued for only a short time at the beginning of the present year. In January very little rain fell, except in the early days of the month, when a few light showers occurred in the western districts owing to a cold weather disturbance which had begun before the end of December 1896. The average fall for the whole month was less than ·1 inch, except in Bihar and Chota Nagpur, in the former of which it was ·15 inch and in the latter ·33 inch.

From the beginning of February a change for the better was apparent, the shallow depressions, to which the cold weather rainfall is due, became more frequent, and were attended by continuous cloudy weather for days at a time over the whole province. General rainfall occurred, but the distribution was less uniform than usual, owing to a peculiarity in the movement of the depressions. Instead of passing eastwards across the centre of the province, they took a more southerly course over Orissa and became diffused over the Bay, a circumstance which resulted in heavier rainfall than usual in Orissa and less than usual over the greater part of Bengal proper. This peculiarity was maintained almost throughout the hot weather, as it was not till May that it began to give way. In February the excess rainfall was 1·9 inches in Orissa, ·75 inch in Chota Nagpur and less than ·1 inch in Bihar, while in Bengal proper defect varied from ·4 inch in South West Bengal to ·66 inch in East Bengal.

In March weather continued to be more unsettled than usual. There were four occasions of disturbed weather owing to passing depressions, and on at least two of these occasions there were present, in a well marked form, the peculiarities noticed as occurring in February. The two most important of these were (1) the southward tendency of the course followed by the depressions and (2) the continued cloudy weather which accompanied their passage eastward. In consequence the average cloud amounts were above the normal over the whole province by from 10 to 20 per cent., except at Darjeeling, where there was much less cloud than is usual in March. While the cloud prevailed, light showers were frequent in all districts, and the total fall for the month was everywhere above the average. Lower Bengal received less compared with the normal than any other part of the province, whereas in Orissa more than three times the normal amount fell. Bihar and Chota Nagpur received between two and three times their normal falls for March. The unusual displacement of the depressions towards the south brought Orissa more under their influence, and as in the end they disappeared over the Bay, the northerly winds which set in over Lower Bengal were unfavourable for the development of the thunderstorms to which rainfall at that season of the year is due.

The heavier rainfall in North Bengal appears to be connected with the peculiarity noticed above in the direction of motion of the depressions. While the shallow depressions were approaching the west of the province, as usual from the west, pressure fell in North Bengal and a local depression formed there. These local depressions were not of long duration, but they gave rise to rain earlier than in other districts. That fall of pressure was soon afterwards followed by a rapid rise which spread south-westwards and meeting the advancing depression from the west caused it to take a more southerly course over Orissa towards the north of the Bay.

During April there were three periods of disturbed weather, and on one of these the peculiarity noticed above was present. The depressions were checked, in their eastward advance, over the western districts, so that rainfall remained below the normal over the greater part of Bengal proper, especially in East Bengal, where there was defect of 2·4 inches. In Assam rainfall was much less than in March, Silchar receiving only 2·8 and Dhubri 1·23 inches. The change began about the middle of April which indicated the commencement of the pre-monsoon period, during which disturbances are no longer looked for from the west. The moist air from the Bay had been forcing its way southwards over Burma and began to affect the amount of rainfall in Assam as shown by the large increase in the total fall during May, especially at Dhubri, where it rose from 1·23 inches in April to 34·88 inches in May. The effect of the change was also felt over the whole province, as during that month North Bengal was the only division which received more than the normal amount, and in East Bengal the defect was relatively less than it had been during the three previous months.

Weather was unusually settled over the Bay and no storm occurred. One shallow depression developed in the east in the early part of the month, and another, also of no great depth, appeared about the middle of the month. They both moved over Burma, but the second was afterwards shown in a shallow form in Bengal, and caused strong southerly winds for some days during which rainfall was fairly general in the eastern districts.

Very abnormal conditions prevailed in June almost throughout the month. Weather remained settled over the Bay, only one small storm occurring about the middle of the month. The causes of the unsettled weather appeared to come from the west, as in the cold season, rather than from the south or south-east the usual direction at that time of the year. Several times during the first half of the month a slight depression passed across the province from the west causing general rain in almost all districts. The most marked of these began about the 11th and was accompanied by weather similar to what prevails during the monsoon months. Its abnormal character, however, was shown by its beginning in the north of the province and from there extending southwards.

A further instance occurred towards the end of the month, immediately before the commencement of the very marked break in the rains which continued for about a week at the end of June and the beginning of July. A shallow depression entered the north-west of the province about the 24th and moving eastward developed into one of moderate depth over the eastern districts. Ordinary monsoon weather had prevailed from about the middle of the month till the 24th, and the monsoon current was probably checked over Bihar by the eastward movement of that depression, a circumstance to which the very heavy rain in South Bihar on the 24th and 25th was no doubt due. This rainfall was so unusually heavy that over a small area extending westward from Patna, the excess falls for June were from 20 to 30 inches above the normal.

After the formation of the low pressure area over the east of the province, the monsoon current altogether ceased and dry westerly winds with high temperature prevailed till after the beginning of July. The renewal of monsoon weather was due to a shallow depression which developed over the north of the Bay. The disturbance was very feeble while over the Bay and was of no importance except from the fact that it brought about a renewal of the rains. The general rain which followed its westerly movement was maintained in the north of the province by a shallow land depression which formed in North Bengal shortly afterwards and before moving westward remained fairly stationary for two or three days. During the remaining part of July the monsoon current was weak owing to the high pressure over North Bengal.

Orissa was the only division, which on an average received more than the normal amount for July, and that was due to heavy falls near the coast, excess being 1·33 inches. In the other divisions defect was about 2 inches except in East and North Bengal, where it was 3·6 and 4·1 inches respectively. Notwithstanding the marked break at the beginning of the month, and the partial one towards the end when only scattered showers were falling, the number of rainy days, taking a rainy day as one on which a tenth of an inch or more has fallen, was not far short of the normal. The greatest deficiency was four days in South-West Bengal. This shows that the rainfall was well distributed during the second and third weeks and was not due to any unusually heavy falls.

The uniform distribution of the rainfall which was first noticeable during July became one of the most prominent features of the remaining months of the monsoon season. The weather remained very settled over the Bay till towards the end of September, so that no depressions of any depth passed over any part of the province. But shallow depressions occurred not unfrequently both at the head of the Bay and over the province and to these the practically normal falls were due.

During August weather was of an unusually uniform character, cloudy and showery in all districts, but not entirely without variations. There were two periods of comparatively heavy and two of comparatively light rainfall during the latter of which only scattered showers fell in places. In the first and third weeks, when rainfall was more plentiful, there was low pressure over the north of the province. The steep pressure gradient which at the same time prevailed over the Bay caused a strongish monsoon, and in consequence a free supply of moist air was moving over the land. The precipitation was partly maintained by the irregular pressure changes which occurred from day to day and gave rise to the variations in the wind circulation to which, during settled weather, rainfall is largely due.

During the second and fourth weeks when rainfall was more scanty, the area of lowest pressure was transferred southward in the first case to Orissa and in the second to the Circars. A steady easterly current prevailed over the province, and though unfavourable for rainfall at inland stations it only partially prevented it as rainfall was generally recorded at more than half the registering stations.

On two occasions there were signs of shallow depressions. The first probably crossed the north of the Bay but did not show as a definite depression till it was over Orissa on the 7th. The second began on the 17th with a moderate fall of pressure in Burma and a brisk rise in Bihar. It was very indistinct during the two following days, but moving north-westward across the north of the Bay into Bengal it became better defined in Bihar on the 19th. Though this very shallow depression did not cause the renewal of general rain, it was the main cause of the continuance of the rainfall till after the end of the third week, and the heaviest falls of the month were during its passage across Bengal and Bihar, especially the latter on the 19th.

East Bengal received during August 3·44 inches more than the normal, South-west Bengal 1 inch and in the other divisions there was defect varying from a third of an inch, in North Bengal to 1 inch in Chota Nagpur.

The uniform character of the rainfall was not so marked in September as North and East Bengal received 30 per cent. more than the normal, and Orissa and Chota Nagpur 20 to 30 per cent. less. This was partly due to a less settled state which began to appear over the Bay. The change did not become established till towards the end of the month when the first storm of the season occurred. It was a small but intense storm which crossed the Bay with unusual rapidity towards the Ganjam coast, where it gave rise to strong winds for a few hours in the early morning of the 24th. A week afterwards another storm began and in the early days of October developed into a disturbance of wide extent and low rate of motion. The centre of this second depression also crossed the coast near Gopalpur, but soon afterwards it turned towards the north and passing rapidly over Orissa, Chota Nagpur and Bihar caused general rain, especially in the northern districts when close to the hills.

Besides these two disturbances and previous to them two shallow depressions developed, the first in Lower Bengal, the second in the south of the Bay. Neither of these caused rainfall to any extent over the province except during the early stages of the first which was forced southwards over Orissa by a rapid rise of pressure beginning in the north. The influence of the second was confined to the south of the Bay.

The total rainfall during September was uniform over a great part of the province, and it was only in the extreme east and north where much irregularity was shown. When uniform the falls were generally about 8 inches, and there was only one well defined tract of country where they were beow 5 inches. It included the greater part of the Patna district and parts of Gaya, Shahabad and Saran.

After the general heavy rain caused during the first few days of October by the disturbance referred to above settled weather set in and continued till about the middle of the month when another disturbance began over the Bay. It was a fairly severe storm while in the east of the Bay judging by the strong winds it caused at Diamond Island, but during its westward movement the depression became diffused and after some days disappeared without any definite centre having reached the west coast. Though it did not cause stormy weather in the north of the Bay there was much cloud and rain over a wide area including the whole of Bengal, the falls being most heavy and general in the western districts.

The period of the existence of this disturbance may be said to be between the 12th and 17th, though there were signs of a low pressure area in the south-west of the Bay for two or three days more. These signs, however, ceased as the third disturbance of the month began to affect weather in the east of the Bay. It afterwards moved into the north-east angle of the Bay and crossing the Chittagong coast caused much destruction to life and property in that division. There was very heavy rain over the whole of the division, but the storm was of too limited extent, and too intense within the central area to have much influence on weather conditions in other parts of the province.

As the rainfall during the first and third weeks was more heavy and continuous than is usual in October, every district in the province received considerably more than the normal fall, more especially in the west. The average excess for the Orissa division was 4·96 and for Bihar 4·32 inches. Chota Nagpur and South-West Bengal each received on an average nearly 3 inches more than the normal amount, North Bengal about 2·5 inches and East Bengal 1·42 inches. The average number of rainy days in Chota Nagpur and Bihar was double the usual number, and in most other districts 50 per cent. in excess.

After the disturbing influence of the cyclone of 24th October ceased, settled weather prevailed in all districts with an almost entire absence of rainfall.

Though slightly below the normal during the monsoon season on an average for the whole province, the rainfall from the beginning of the year to the end of October is somewhat in excess. In South-West Bengal, Orissa and Bihar excess varies from 3 to 8 per cent. In the other divisions there has been defect varying from 2 to 5 per cent. The average fall for the monsoon seasons in 1895 and 1896 was 51·3 inches, and in the past season it was 58·79 the normal being 59·12 inches.

The main features of the rainfall distribution during the present year are:—

1. The period of drought came to an end in January, after which rainfall was generally plentiful, especially in the south-western districts.
2. During the greater part of the monsoon season, falls were well distributed and seldom very heavy owing to the rare occurrence of cyclonic storms in the Bay of Bengal.
3. From the end of September a period of unsettled conditions set in over the Bay, with the result that rainfall was much more heavy than usual over the whole province.
4. Monsoon weather ceased on the 22nd in North Bengal and Bihar, on the 23rd in Orissa and Chota Nagpur, and on the 25th in the extreme south-east.

Owing chiefly to smaller receipts of gram and pulses from Calcutta, the import trade of Chittagong declined by 249 cwts., while Galle and Colombo together received 1,931 cwts. of rice and 444 cwts. of paddy, against nil in the corresponding period of 1896. The improvement of 13,452 cwts. in the export trade of the Balasore ports was mainly due to the consignments of 22,790 cwts. of rice to Mauritius, Calcutta, and the Madras ports, against 7,903 cwts. only during the week ending 21st December 1896. Colombo received 11,701 cwts. of rice from False Point, against nil in the third week of December 1896, and Mauritius, which took 14,113 cwts. of rice from that port in the week ending 21st December 1896, drew nothing during the period under review.

The results of observations at the Alipore Observatory are not rigorously comparable with the registers of past years (at the Park Street Observatory). The barometer is about 3 feet higher at Alipore, and, other things being equal, reads therefore ·003 lower. The diurnal range of temperature is also greater at Alipore, and the mean temperature apparently about 2·3° lower; and, finally, the thermometer which furnished the record of temperature at the Surveyor-General's Office during 20 years and upwards is found to read 0·6 higher than the Kew standard thermometer, which is the standard of reference at the present Observatory.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h., and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

NOTIFICATION.

No. 284M.—The 17th January 1898.—It is hereby notified for general information that, in exercise of the power vested in the Local Government by section 19 of the Calcutta Municipal Consolidation Act, II of 1888, the Lieutenant-Governor has been pleased to prescribe the following rules for the election of Commissioners for the town of Calcutta:—

1. The fourth election of Commissioners under Act II (B.C.) of 1888 shall take place on 12th March 1898.

2. The polling shall take place at such stations as the Chairman may determine as soon as the wards for which contests will take place under section 31 are known. Notice of the places fixed upon shall be given by advertisement in the Municipal Office, and in at least two daily newspapers not later than the 11th March.

3. The Commissioners of the town of Calcutta shall appoint a polling officer to preside at each station, and as many assistant polling officers as they may think requisite, and may pay to each officer so appointed such reasonable remuneration for his services as they may think fit.

4. The Chairman shall supply to each polling officer a sufficient number of copies of so much of the list of voters revised in accordance with section 22, Act II (B.C.) of 1888, as may relate to the wards for which such polling officer is appointed to take votes, and no vote shall be received by the polling officer or his assistants unless the name of the voter is entered in such list. The Chairman shall also furnish the polling officer with the names of the candidates for each ward as announced in accordance with section 31 of the above Act, and no vote shall be received in favour of any person other than one of such candidates.

5. All votes must be given at the poll on forms to be provided by the Chairman at the polling stations. Separate forms easily distinguishable shall be provided for each candidate, and the voter, unless he declares himself unable to write, shall write in his own hand, in the presence of the polling officer or one of his assistants, his own name, the name of the candidate for whom he votes, and the number of votes given for him. If he declares himself unable to write, the names and number shall be written at the dictation of the voter by the polling officer or one of his assistants, and such polling officer or assistant shall in that case append his own signature to the form.

6. The Chairman shall circulate to the voters of all wards for which there will be a poll under section 31 a post-card containing in English the name of the voter, the number of votes he is entitled to give, the names of the candidates for his ward, the polling station, and such other directions as the Chairman may think fit; such post-card shall be posted not less than two nor more than seven days before the date of election.

7. The post-card shall also advise the addressee to bring it with him to the poll as a help to identification, and if so brought, it shall be attached to the voting paper.

8. If a voter gives some of his votes to one candidate and others to one or more other candidates, he shall fill up a separate voting paper for each candidate for whom he votes.

9. It shall be the duty of the polling officer or one of his assistants to satisfy himself—

(1) that the name of the voter is entered in the list;
(2) that the voting paper is filled up in the manner prescribed in Rule 5;
(3) that the name of the candidate voted for corresponds with the form assigned for such candidate;
(4) that the post-card, if brought by the voter, is attached to his voting paper or one of his voting papers;
(5) that the voter has not given more votes than he is entitled to under the law.

10. No objection shall be taken at the polling station to the name of any voter entered in the list, or to the number of votes assigned to him; but if any objection is taken to the identity of any voter, it shall be recorded on the back of the voting paper by the polling officer or his assistant.

11. If any voter gives more votes than he is entitled to, and the mistake escapes detection till after the voter has left the poll, a sufficient equal number of votes shall be deducted from each candidate voted for to bring the number of votes within the number allotted to the voter.

Illustration.—A being entitled to 6 votes gives 8 votes to X; 2 shall be deducted.

B being entitled to 4 votes gives 5 to X and 3 to Y; 3 votes shall be allowed to X and 1 to Y.

C being entitled to 7 votes gives 4 to X, 4 to Y, and 3 to Z; 2 shall be allowed to X, 2 to Y, and 1 to Z, and 2 votes be lost.

12. The polling shall commence at 9 A.M. and close at 6 P.M., and if it cannot be finished for any ward by that hour, it shall be continued on the following day at 9 till finished.

13. The polling officer shall be entrusted with the maintenance of order at the polling station, and all voters shall, while at or near the polling station, comply with all reasonable orders issued by him for the preservation of order.

14. At the close of the poll for each ward, the polling officer shall forward to the Chairman the voting papers which have been received by him duly sealed and secured, sending the voting papers to which objections have been taken separately from those to which no objections have been taken.

15. PART VI.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 23.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Bill was introduced in the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 14th January, 1898 :—

NO. 1 OF 1898.

A Bill to provide for the issue of currency notes in exchange for gold received in England.

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for the issue of currency notes in exchange for gold received in England ; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Short title, commencement and duration.

1. (1). This Act may be called the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1898.

(2) It shall come into force at once ; and

(3) It shall remain in force for six months from its commencement, and no longer.

Addition of new section after section 13, Act XX of 1882.

2. After section 13 of the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1882, the following section shall be added namely :—

Issue of notes against gold received in England.

"13A. The Governor General in Council may, from time to time, by an order notified in the Gazette of India, direct that currency notes shall be issued at such offices of issue as are named in the order to an amount equal to the value of gold held by the Secretary of State for India at the rate, and subject to the conditions, fixed by that order

Provided that—

(1) the power conferred by this section shall not be exercised unless the Secretary of State for India shall consent to hold in gold coin or gold bullion what he shall determine to be equivalent in value to the notes so issued, as a reserve to secure the payment of such notes, and to transmit the same, or what he shall determine to be equivalent to the same, in gold coin or gold bullion to India ;

(2) gold coin or gold bullion so remitted shall be deemed to be received, within the meaning of section 19, when it is received in India by the Governor General in Council ; and

(3) gold coin or gold bullion so retained shall, until its arrival in India, be distinguished from other gold coin or gold bullion in the abstract account published under section 27."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to afford a means of relief to the severe stringency which now exists in the money market. Section 13 of the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1882, authorises the Governor General in Council to direct that currency notes shall be issued by the Paper Currency Department in exchange for gold coin and bullion received in India at the office of issue. The Bill extends this provision so as to allow the issue of currency notes against gold received in London by Her Majesty's Secretary of State if he consents to receive the gold and to transmit it to India.

The 13th January, 1898.

J. WESTLAND.

J. M. MACPHERSON,
Secretary to the Government of India.

AUSTRALIA—TORRES STRAIT—INNER ROUTE.

(1) Passage through the Great Barrier Reef, near the Howick group.

THE Port Master, Brisbane, has given notice (No. 20 of 1897) that Captain W. Dawson, of H.M.S. Waterwitch, reports having sounded out the passage through the Great Barrier Reef, which lies between Stapleton (X) Islet (in lat. 14° 19′ 12″ S., long. 144° 51′ 3″ E.) and No. 1 sandbank.

The passage, which will be known hereafter as "Waterwitch Passage," is clear of dangers and carries a depth of 14 to 19 fathoms.

Vessels proceeding to sea from the Inner Route should pass between Bewick and Ingham Islands, and, having made Stapleton Island, leave it on the starboard hand ½ mile distant; then steering N. 10° E. (mag.) for 7·4 miles will bring No. 1 sandbank abeam. It is close to the edge of the reef, and should be passed on the starboard hand ½ mile distant. The passage is 1¼ miles wide, but the reef on the west side of it should be given a good berth, as it was not sounded off. Heavy tide-rips and strong tidal currents are met with in the passage, but on the sandbank side it is always smooth. The northern edge of the reef west of Stapleton Island bears N. 62½° W. from Stapleton. The channel between the two is 2·2 miles wide, and quite clear of dangers.

Fairway beacon with illuminated gauge.

THE Port Master, Brisbane, has given notice (No. 22 of 1897) that an automatic clock-face tide guage, illuminated at night, is exhibited from the Fairway Beacon at the outer edge of the bar at Cairns Harbour. The beacon from which False Cape bears S. 79° 30′ E. and the front leading light S. 24° W. is placed in a depth of 15 feet at low-water springs, and is 150 feet from the line of lights and beacons marking the centre of the bar cutting. It is to be left on the port hand when entering.

The tide guage indicates the height of tide above low-water datum from 1 foot to 11 feet by means of a pointer moving round a clock-face dial looking seaward. The gauge does not indicate below 1 foot nor above 11 feet, the pointer resting at those points, so that 1 foot should be interpreted 1 foot or under and 11 feet as 11 feet and over.

The available depth in the cutting will be obtained by adding 12′ 6″ to the height shown by the guage.

The light will be visible in clear weather at a distance of 5 miles, except between the bearings of W. S. W. and S. S. E., between which bearings the direct light is obscured, and the frosted clock-face is only visible.

The old red Fairway Buoy has been removed.

FINAL REPORT ON THE INDIGO CROPS OF BENGAL FOR THE YEAR 1897.

THE following is published for general information.

REV. DEPT., M. FINUCANE,
The 15th January 1898. Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

DEPARTMENT OF LAND RECORDS AND AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

Final Report on the Indigo Crops of the Lower Provinces of Bengal for the year 1897.

Character of the season.—It will appear from the remarks of District Officers, in the statement attached to this note, that the crop suffered considerably for want of timely rainfall during the growing season in the districts of Midnapur, Murshidabad, Champaran and Purneah, and that it suffered from incessant rainfall during the manufacturing season in Jessore. In the first note on this crop, issued by this Department on 3rd October 1897, it was pointed out how the spring cultivation and sowings had been greatly retarded in places by want of moisture. The heavy rainfall later in the season interfered also with the healthy growth of the plants and the proper manufacture of the dye. Loss was also caused by floods in Purneah. The season was, therefore, unfavourable for the indigo crop both in Bihar and in Bengal, and the outturn reported is, accordingly, poor.

Area under cultivation.—The total area sown this year is estimated to be less than last year's area by 27,000 acres. The falling off was most marked in Muzaffarpur (by 17,200 acres), Nadia (by 9.400 acres), Midnapur (by 8,000 acres), Jessore (by 4,000 acres), and Rajshahi (by 1,400 acres). The increased cultivation reported from a few districts is only nominal, except in the case of Purneah and Champaran, where 8,300 and 5,000 acres more, respectively, than the previous year's area, have been shown.

Outturn of crop.—Of the chief indigo-growing districts, Muzaffarpur and Saran return a 7-anna crop only. Midnapur and Murshidabad, 8 and 9-anna crops respectively, and Darbhanga, Champaran and Purnea, 10-anna crops. The general averages deduced from the district figures come to 9 annas for Bihar and 10½ annas for Bengal, but the Bengal figure is probably too high.

Messrs. Moran and Company estimate the outturn of indigo for Bihar and Bengal at 3,104,200lbs. and 1,309,000lbs. respectively, as against 3,128,700lbs. and 2,525,300lbs. estimated by the District Officers. The figures for Bihar closely approximate, but the total, as well as the details for Bengal, widely differ, and it is probable that Messrs. Moran and Company's estimate is more correct than that shown by us, though there may be much indigo produced and utilized for local consumption in Bengal, which does not come into the Calcutta market.

The outturn is much below the average this year, on account of great lack of moisture in the lands to begin with, and unfavourable weather during manufacture, which have affected it most adversely. The second cuttings were particularly poor. The total outturn this year has been 13,100 factory maunds, and in 1896 it was 20,480 factory maunds. A bumper crop for Champaran is 26,000 maunds; an average one, 21,000. The outturn in the previous years seems to have been much under-estimated.

Owing chiefly to larger receipts of gram and pulses and other food-grains from Calcutta and Rangoon, the import trade of Chittagong improved by 345 cwts., while Colombo anp Calicut together received 1,583 cwts of rice and 330 cwts. of paddy, against nil in the corresponding period of 1896. The improvement of 1,103 cwts. in the import trade of the Balasore ports was mainly due to the receipts of 1,131 cwts. of wheat, gram and pulses and other food-grains from Calcutta, against 29 cwts. only in the ten days ending 31st December 1896, and the increase in the export trade was attributable to larger consignments of rice and paddy to Calcutta, viz., 31,619 cwts., against 24,640 cwts, during the corresponding period of last year.

Detailed statements showing the sources of supply and the places of destination, both as regards Foreign and Indian ports, are given below:—

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE MONTH OF DECEMBER 1897.

During December, weather is, with but little variation, fine and setttled over the province and the north of the Bay. The retreating monsoon is still active in the south, and squally weather frequently occurs, but does not usually extend to the north of a line joining Diamond Island and Nellore. When cyclonic storms develop to the south of this line, the most common direction of advance is towards the Madras coast or Ceylon, and occasionally they enter the north of the Bay, the latter course being very rare after the middle of the month.

On the other hand, the season for the cold-weather storms may be said to have begun before the end of the month, so that weather in Bengal is liable to be disturbed by the approach of unsettled conditions from the south of the Bay in the early part of the month, or from the north-west of India during the latter half. The rainfall caused by these slight storms is invariably of small amount, as shown by the normal averages being between ·2 and ·3 inch in the southern part of the province, including East Bengal, Chota Nagpur and Orissa, and between ·1 and 2 inch in the northern and central districts.

During the month just past, weather has been more settled than usual, though an abnormal development occurred over the Bay towards the end of the month, with results which were felt over the greater part of the province. A cyclonic storm of some severity began in the east of the Bay about the 22nd, and after causing strong winds as far north as Diamond Island on the 24th, it moved westward, apparently towards the Ceylon coast. As far as could be inferred from the coast observations, stormy weather prevailed over a wide area, and the course taken by the centre continued for some time to be westerly. As it approached the west coast, it turned northwards and moved into the centre of the Bay where it began to break up about the 28th. A few shipping reports since received show that strong winds, with a very rough sea, prevailed up till the 28th, after which weather rapidly moderated.

The influence of this storm on weather in Bengal was seen in the general cloud which continued for some days, the only rainfall which occurred was due to it, and was confined to Orissa and East Bengal, in the former of which ·12 inch fell on an average for the whole division, and in the latter ·07 inch. The other parts of the province, including South-West Bengal, Chota Nagpur, North Bengal and Bihar, were rainless throughout the month.

As no disturbance passed over the province from the west, the above was the only occasion of unsettled weather during the whole month. At other times, the usual oscillations of pressure occurred, with local irregularities, which at times gave rise to cloud and a few isolated light showers, mostly in North Bengal during the first week

Temperature was low or almost normal till towards the end of the month, when the cyclonic storm over the Bay caused a considerable rise, especially in night readings.

At the end of November, there was a rather large defect in pressure over the whole province, increasing slightly towards the north-west. During the first two days of December, this defect to a large extent disappeared owing to a continued moderate to brisk rise, but a slight depression remained over Bihar for a few days more. While it lasted, winds were more southerly than usual in the western districts, and the sky was cloudy over the north of the province, with a few very light scattered showers in North Bengal.

A general rise of pressure set in on the 5th, varying from ·08 inch in North Bengal and Bihar to about ·02 inch in the south of the Bay, so that the gradient became steeper and the northerly winds strengthened. Well marked cold-weather conditions then prevailed over the province and the north of the Bay, and in the south, the squally weather spread westwards towards Ceylon, where rainfall was of daily occurrence. The high pressure continued for some days over Bengal, but it was giving way from the 7th, at first slowly, then moderately, and by the 9th the distribution was again normal.

From the 5th to the 9th, while pressure was higher and the gradient rather steeper than the average, winds were normal in direction and strength, and mean temperature was practically normal.

Between the 10th and 13th only slight changes occurred in pressure and temperature, and the settled weather, which prevailed in the north, extended to the extreme south of the Bay. From the latter date they both began to fall over the whole area, except in Burma, where temperature remained several degrees above the normal. Though there was little change in the general weather conditions in the north of the Bay, showery weather set in over the south-west, but was to a large extend confined to Ceylon and the extreme south of the Peninsula. The period of cool weather continued till the end of the third week, when normal conditions were again prevalent.

The cyclonic storm was by that time developing in the east of the Bay, and as the depression was causing an indraught from the west, rainfall ceased in Madras and Ceylon.

The depth of the depression increased considerably on the 23rd, owing to a rapid increase over Bengal and probably a fall within the area of disturbance, which was still in the south-east or south of the Bay. Wind velocity began to increase at Diamond Island and the sea was not so smooth, but it was not till the 24th that there was any decided change. The velocity at 8 A.M. was then 30 miles an hour. Pressure began to fall in Ceylon and the south of Madras, and the change of winds in Burma, from N N. E. to E. N. E., showed that the disturbance was moving westward, more especially as heavy rain was falling in Ceylon and the sea was more or less rough as far north as Negapatam. On the 25th and 26th, the fall of pressure was general in the west of the Bay, but was most noticeable in the Circars, towards which the depression was then probably moving. It was more diffused, and shortly afterwards, filled up over the centre of the Bay.

The influence of the disturbance in the north of the Bay and over the province has been already stated. Clouds began to form on the 24th, and steadily increased in density till the sky was everywhere overcast. The usual change of temperature followed, giving warm nights and cool days, but with only a moderate variation from the normal temperature. Notwithstanding the heavy cloud, very little rain fell, and the light showers were confined to Orissa and East Bengal.

Though the disturbance appeared to cease, while the depression was still over the centre of the Bay, the subsequent changes of pressure in the north of the province show that it is not improbable that the depression continued to move northwards at a higher level of the atmosphere. On the 29th pressure rose slowly at all stations, but on the 30th, a brisk fall set in over the north of the province and continued rapidly on the 31st, resulting in a depression of considerable depth over North Bengal and Bihar. These changes may have been due to the depression from the Bay, breaking up on reaching the Himalayas. Winds became south or south-west over the province, but the cloudy weather, which had previously been general, was not maintained, and no rain fell either in North Bengal or Bihar.

Pressure changes have generally been small, and the difference from the normal has been more than ·1 inch on a few occasions only, the greatest defect being about ·14 inch in Bihar at the end of the month. Mean values for the month differ by very small amounts from the normal, usually by only a few thousandths of an inch, there being a slight excess in the north and a similar small defect in the south of the province.

Temperature, during the early half of the month, differed little from the normal. Then followed a week of comparatively cool weather, till the sky became cloudy owing to the disturbance over the Bay. During the last week of the month, means were generally above the normal.

Neither average maximum nor average minimum values for the whole month differed to any great extent from the normal. Usually there was a small excess in the north and a small defect in the south, and the mean variation is generally about half a degree.

The lowest reading recorded in Chota Nagpur was 40·9°, in Bihar 42·6°, in South-West Bengal and Orissa 44·3° and in North Bengal 46·6°.

Rainfall was almost entirely confined to Orissa and East Bengal, and, with the exception of a few light showers in the early part of the month, fell on the 27th and 28th. The falls in East Bengal were mostly in Chittagong, Noakhali and South Lushai The only reports exceeding ·3 inch were received from Cox's Bazâr and Kodala. In Orissa, there were no falls of more than ·2 inch The average fall for East Bengal was rather less, and in Orissa, rather more than a tenth of an inch.

The following table gives in a condensed form the summary of the rainfall information in Bengal for the whole year. It gives a comparison between the actual monthly and total rainfall of the year with the normal values in each of the six meteorological divisions of Bengal, the actual falls being expressed as percentages of the normal amounts:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h., and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

ORDERS BY THE LIEUT.-GOVERNOR OF BENGAL.

MUNICIPAL AND LOCAL.

NOTIFICATION.

No. 284M.—The 17th January 1898.—It is hereby notified for general information that, in exercise of the power vested in the Local Government by section 19 of the Calcutta Municipal Consolidation Act, II of 1888, the Lieutenant-Governor has been pleased to prescribe the following rules for the election of Commissioners for the town of Calcutta:—

1. The fourth election of Commissioners under Act II (B.C.) of 1888 shall take place on 12th March 1898.

2. The polling shall take place at such stations as the Chairman may determine as soon as the wards for which contests will take place under section 31 are known. Notice of the places fixed upon shall be given by advertisement in the Municipal Office, and in at least two daily newspapers not later than the 11th March.

3. The Commissioners of the town of Calcutta shall appoint a polling officer to preside at each station, and as many assistant polling officers as they may think requisite, and may pay to each officer so appointed such reasonable remuneration for his services as they may think fit.

4. The Chairman shall supply to each polling officer a sufficient number of copies of so much of the list of voters revised in accordance with section 22, Act II (B.C.) of 1888, as may relate to the wards for which such polling officer is appointed to take votes, and no vote shall be received by the polling officer or his assistants unless the name of the voter is entered in such list. The Chairman shall also furnish the polling officer with the names of the candidates for each ward as announced in accordance with section 31 of the above Act, and no vote shall be received in favour of any person other than one of such candidates.

5. All votes must be given at the poll on forms to be provided by the Chairman at the polling stations. Separate forms easily distinguishable shall be provided for each candidate, and the voter, unless he declares himself unable to write, shall write in his own hand, in the presence of the polling officer or one of his assistants, his own name, the name of the candidate for whom he votes, and the number of votes given for him. If he declares himself unable to write, the names and number shall be written at the dictation of the voter by the polling officer or one of his assistants, and such polling officer or assistant shall in that case append his own signature to the form.

6. The Chairman shall circulate to the voters of all wards for which there will be a poll under section 31 a post-card containing in English the name of the voter, the number of votes he is entitled to give, the names of the candidates for his ward, the polling station, and such other directions as the Chairman may think fit; such post-card shall be posted not less than two nor more than seven days before the date of election.

7. The post-card shall also advise the addressee to bring it with him to the poll as a help to identification, and if so brought, it shall be attached to the voting paper.

8. If a voter gives some of his votes to one candidate and others to one or more other candidates, he shall fill up a separate voting paper for each candidate for whom he votes.

9. It shall be the duty of the polling officer or one of his assistants to satisfy himself—

(1) that the name of the voter is entered in the list;
(2) that the voting paper is filled up in the manner prescribed in Rule 5;
(3) that the name of the candidate voted for corresponds with the form assigned for such candidate;
(4) that the post-card, if brought by the voter, is attached to his voting paper or one of his voting papers;
(5) that the voter has not given more votes than he is entitled to under the law.

10. No objection shall be taken at the polling station to the name of any voter entered in the list, or to the number of votes assigned to him; but if any objection is taken to the identity of any voter, it shall be recorded on the back of the voting paper by the polling officer or his assistant.

11. If any voter gives more votes than he is entitled to, and the mistake escapes detection till after the voter has left the poll, a sufficient equal number of votes shall be deducted from each candidate voted for to bring the number of votes within the number allotted to the voter.

Illustration.—A being entitled to 6 votes gives 8 votes to X; 2 shall be deducted.

B being entitled to 4 votes gives 5 to X and 3 to Y; 3 votes shall be allowed to X and 1 to Y.

C being entitled to 7 votes gives 4 to X, 4 to Y, and 3 to Z; 2 shall be allowed to X, 2 to Y, and 1 to Z, and 2 votes be lost.

12. The polling shall commence at 9 A.M. and close at 6 P.M., and if it cannot be finished for any ward by that hour, it shall be continued on the following day at 9 till finished.

13. The polling officer shall be entrusted with the maintenance of order at the polling station, and all voters shall, while at or near the polling station, comply with all reasonable orders issued by him for the preservation of order.

14. At the close of the poll for each ward, the polling officer shall forward to the Chairman the voting papers which have been received by him duly sealed and secured, sending the voting papers to which objections have been taken separately from those to which no objections have been taken.

15. All claims or objections preferred under section 21 shall be decided by the Chairman ward by ward, and he shall give such notice in the Municipal Office of the date of hearing for each ward as may be practicable. Such hearing shall be conducted with open doors, in order that any intending candidates or their agents may be present, and the Chairman shall hear any person present who asks to be heard before disposing of such claim or objection.

16. After the publication of the revised list under section 22, further objections to the list may be taken on the following grounds:—

(a) that the voter is dead or is a woman or has not attained the age of 21 years;
(b) that the voter is the same as another person whose name is on the list, and ought to appear only once on the list;
(c) that the voter, though purporting to be authorised to vote under section 24 on behalf of a Hindu joint-family, company, firm or other association of persons, is not duly authorised;
(d) such objection must be in writing, and must be delivered to the Chairman on or before the 10th March.

17. Such objections, as well as all objections under Rule 10 or Rule 11, shall be heard by the Chairman after the date of election, and the provisions of Rule 15 shall apply to the hearing of the objections.

18. The Chairman shall, as soon as practicable, after disposing of objections under the last preceding rule, publish at the Municipal Office and in the Calcutta Gazette—

(a) the names of all candidates elected for wards for which there was no polling as provided in section 24;
(b) the names of all candidates for wards for which there has been polling, together with the number of valid votes given for each candidate, and the two candidates who have obtained the majority of valid votes shall be deemed to be duly elected Commissioners.

19. Except as otherwise provided in section 23, the Chairman's decision in all matters connected with the preparation of the list of voters and the validity of votes shall be final for the purposes of the election.

20. The following penalties are imposed for breach of these rules:—

(a) For signing a name other than the writer's own name on a voting form under Rule 5, or for giving a name other than the voter's own name to the polling officer or assistant polling officer, a fine not exceeding Rs. 200.
(b) For intercepting a post-card or intentionally hindering the delivery of a post-card addressed to a voter under Rule 6, a fine not exceeding Rs. 100.
(c) For taking away a post-card from a voter after it has reached him, without his consent, a fine not exceeding Rs 100.

(d) For refusing to obey the reasonable orders or directions of a polling officer, under Rule 13, a fine not exceeding Rs. 50.

(e) For tampering with any voting paper after it has been duly filled up, and before the result of the election is declared under Rule 18, a fine not exceeding Rs. 200.

N.B.—The word "Chairman" in these rules includes any other officer delegated or appointed under section 27 or 28 of Act II (B.C.) of 1888.

3A. Notwithstanding anything contained in the above rules all Jewish voters shall be allowed to record their votes, on the 11th March 1898, at the Municipal Office, in the presence of the Vice-Chairman, who shall be deemed the Polling Officer.
